

The cable and telephone companies seem to be able to provide more than adequate internet access without wreaking havoc with radio communications. BPL is nothing but a bad idea.